Jordan & Jordan's Market Data Outsourcing Practice Global Expansion

New York, May 6, 2010 - Jordan & Jordan, a preeminent market data, management consulting and information technology provider, announced today that they are expanding their business in Europe and have been selected by a Tier-1 Investment Bank with headquarters in London to outsource the business management function of the firm's global market data department.

This engagement increases Jordan & Jordan's presence in Europe as the success of their market data outsourcing business stateside expands to the London marketplace. "Jordan & Jordan is excited to expand our market data service applying the same principals we use in our U.S. based operations which includes focusing on business process improvement, expense management and compliance," stated Tom Jordan, President and Chief Executive Officer of Jordan & Jordan.

Tim Glenister, recently promoted to Managing Director, will lead the Jordan & Jordan Market Data Practice in London and oversee a team of market data analysts to satisfy the needs of our client. "Our commitment is to satisfy our client's requirements by improving the overall market data business management function and implementing more efficient market data processes," stated Glenister.

Jordan & Jordan's professionals bring a broad range of market data experience gleaned from all segments of the industry: brokerage firms, market data vendors and exchanges. Jordan & Jordan has been able to effectively integrate the knowledge and expertise of these resources into a cohesive team to provide market data focused services to clients. Tom Etheridge will continue to lead the Market Data Practice for clients in the US and Canada and Leo Vozel will continue to focus on exchanges and index providers.
