

Chris Montagnino Rejoins Jordan & Jordan as Managing Director

New York, NY – June 7, 2018 – Jordan & Jordan, a financial technology company that provides Regulatory Compliance, Market Data, and Industry Solutions across the Securities Industry, announces that Chris Montagnino has re-joined the firm as Managing Director of Compliance Services. Chris will lead a team of experienced resources with subject matter expertise in trade surveillance (best execution, spoofing/layering, market manipulation), regulatory requirements/reporting and large-scale industry initiatives such as consolidated audit trail (CAT) and market access.

Most recently, Chris was the Global Head of Exchange Traded Products Surveillance for Deutsche Bank and prior to that he was the former Deputy Chief Compliance Officer at First Republic Investment Management, Inc. This experience, along with his regulatory background from NYSE Enforcement and Market Surveillance, strengthens Jordan & Jordan's depth of knowledge in the regulatory compliance area.

Tom Jordan, President of Jordan & Jordan said, "We are excited to have Chris back at J&J. With his leadership and experience, we can continue to assist our clients with the ever-increasing regulatory scrutiny impacting compliance and further develop our surveillance offering to address emerging patterns of manipulative conduct."

Chris said, "I am excited to rejoin J&J and look forward to working with Tom and the team to provide continued guidance and support for our clients while assisting them with their ongoing compliance obligations and, more importantly, navigating the new and changing requirements".

Whether you are looking to remediate a known deficiency in your regulatory program or you are interested in a proactive review to identify and address issues before they result in regulatory actions, the J&J team can help you develop a solution with the processes and controls to ensure continued success.
